1995 BEACON
VOLUME 22

A commute improvement was noticed by those of us that took the T when the MBTA purchased several new (and quieter!) Red Line trains.

We have arrived...

No matter how many mornings we woke up, looked at the clock, and wished our first class was right across campus, we all commuted to school. We came by train, by car, by bus, on foot, and by cycle.

Like the mailman, we braved sleet and snow and driving rain (well, not too much snow) to reach the UMass Boston and pursue our education.

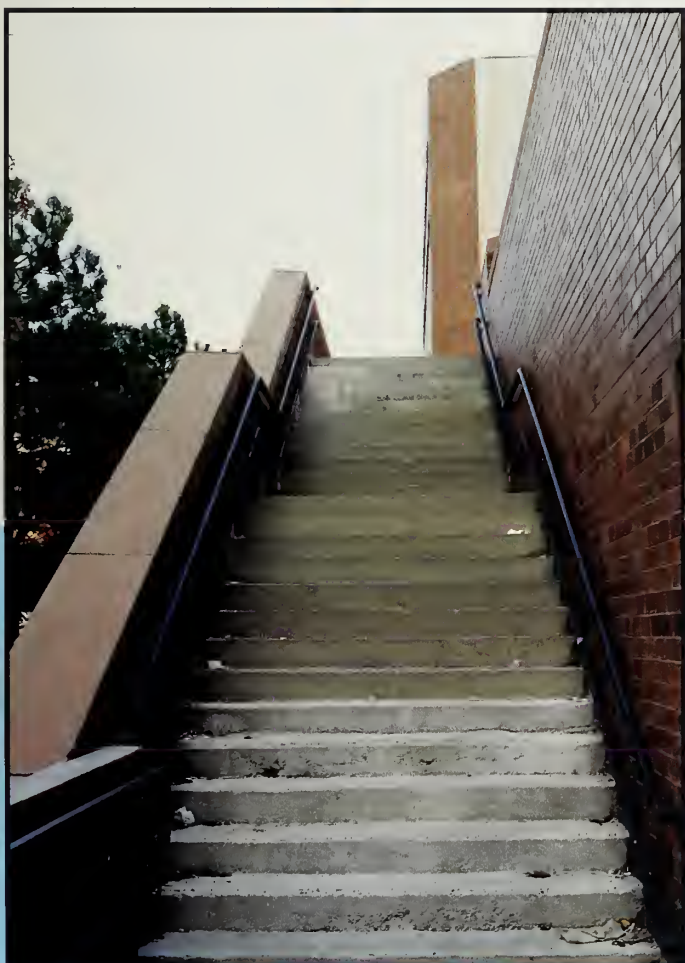

The Harbor Campus

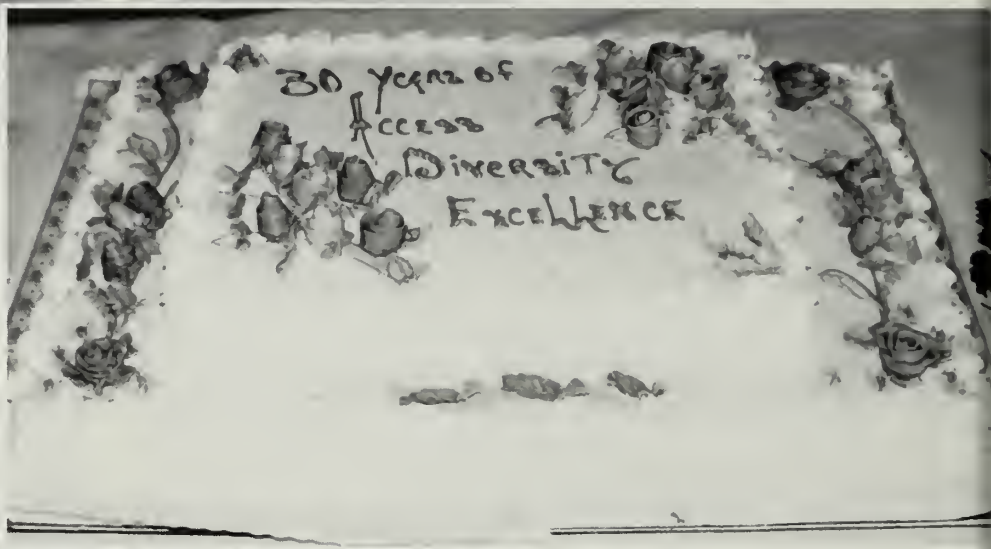

Set between the city of Boston and the Harbor, UMass Boston was where we chose to climb the ladder of higher learning. Our melting pot campus merged various ages, cultures, and viewpoints that led us to new insights and friendships. We were working, parenting, nontraditional, DETERMINED students who enhanced our classrooms with our real and practical experiences.

Facing the future as graduates of UMass Boston, we are armed with the knowledge that we attained here. May we all find what we are searching for.

Happy 30th Anniversary, UMB!

From what was once Boston State College rose the institution of which we are now alums - The University of Massachusetts at Boston. Students, faculty, and staff gathered in the McCormack Cafeteria to join in the 30th anniversary festivities sponsored by the Chancellor's office. In the spirit of celebration, Chancellor Sherry Penny and Assistant to the Chancellor Edward Toomey cut the first piece of anniversary cake.

ADMINIS SERV

(the nice people

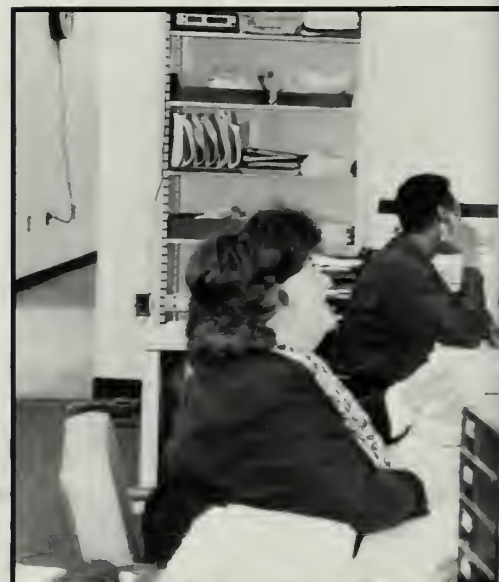

While our diversity as students will cause us to remember our years here differently, each of us will undoubtedly recall our days on the 1st and 2nd floors of Admin. as we waited to register, drop off forms, pay our bills, and (hopefully) pick up checks. We whined and moaned and even yelled at these groups of people who, though we often forgot, were there to help us.

To start at the top and work our way down, we shall begin with the Bursar's Office. The Bursar's Office is solely responsible for the collecting of tuition and fees and the disbursement of scholarship and refund checks for students. This made them the most loved (because they were the medium through which we received our excess checks) and hated (because they collected our bills) office on campus. In addition to handling monetary transactions with students, the Bursar's Office services the entire university.

The staff of the Registrar's Office are the keepers of our records and the processors of our grades, diplomas, and transcripts. They are also an example of our student fees at work. In the last year, our $30 registration fee was used to instill the touchtone registration system - a vast improvement upon the former process of waiting in line in the gym. Future UMB students will be able to process course withdrawals and add-drops over the phone, and plans are in the works for Kiosks to be placed on campus (touch pads where you can check on your registration status).

The responsibility of the Financial Aid office is to see that funds are available to cover direct educational costs immediately and to help with living expenses ASAP. Each year the office processes $20 million in loans to UMB students at $2-5,000 per loan per student. This year the office has dramatically improved at client contact spots by quadrupling telephone services, doubling the entrance area of the office, cutting 5 weeks off of loan processing, and sending postcards to alert students to loan disbursement dates, which cut down on much waiting around for information and checks.

STUDENT

In search of Student Life . . .

Sure, we had our own lives – our families, our jobs, our academic pursuits – and it's true that sometimes we weren't able to manage much more than that. But despite this, there was life on the UMB campus. A trip to the fourth floor of the Wheatley Building made this apparent.

There, the campus came to life as students stopped to relax, interact and organize. Tucked away along a couple of corridors were the foundations of much of the student activity on campus.

At the center of this universe was the Department of Student Life, responsible for the administration of the majority of the activity. Surrounding it were the offices of the Student Senate, the Student Centers, and a number of other student-run organizations.

Despite their individual missions and directives, the student coordinators of these facilities shared a common goal: to make their services accessible and well known to the entire UMB community. They saw their role as that of educators, as well as advocates, and expressed a desire to include as many students as possible in their "families". Above all they wished to branch beyond their somewhat isolated location and spread a sense of student unity to all parts of the UMass Boston campus.

Below: Staff of the Student Life Department, located on the fourth floor of the Wheatley Building.

Student Senate

Composed of elected students from each of the four UMB Colleges, the Student Senate strove to fulfill its mission to provide an effective, responsible representative form of student government. Under the leadership of Student Senate Speaker Kevin Donahue and Associate Speaker Dee Dee Anderson, the Senate's six standing committees were committed to articulating and protecting the rights of students as well as communicating the needs of students to the UMass administration.

In November, a group of twelve Student Senators and Center Coordinators attended the National Conference on Student Services in Orlando, Florida.

SAEC: Coming together

Each year the Student Arts and Events Council (SAEC) has a difficult mission: to bring the diverse and active student body of UMass Boston together as a community. This year the magnitude of difficulty involved was foreshadowed as the Council struggled to find a convenient meeting time for all of its five members!

Nevertheless, Council members were not scared off, and worked to fulfill their mission with the added goals of increasing night student participation and diversity in SAEC activities. Over the course of the year the SAEC offered free and discounted tickets to the movies, the Museum of Science, the New England Aquarium, the JFK Library, the Nutcracker and Kiss of the Spider Woman. The Council also sponsored on and off campus events such as coffee breaks during finals, bus trips to New York City and the Worcester outlet mall, end-of-the-semester bashes and the Graduation Ball.

Although their busy schedules kept us from photographing them all at once, SAEC members worked together to successfully achieve their goals.

Center for Student Advocacy: business booming

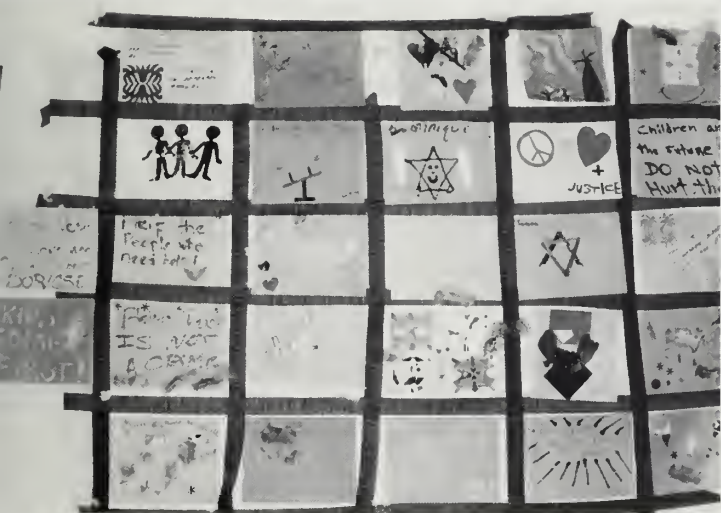

The Center for Student Advocacy (CSA) found no lack of clientele in its first year of existence on the Harbor Campus. Formerly the Center for Student Support and the Center for Education Rights, the CSA was established this year to provide students with easier access to the administration than would otherwise be possible. The Center served as an advocacy and referral service for students who had problems or questions related to registration, professors, public safety or any other issue. According to Center Coordinator Scott O'Neil, the most asked for advocacy was in the area of Financial Aid.

Additionally, the Center sponsored preparatory workshops for the Writing Proficiency exam, open meetings with the Chancellor and instructional workshops for the Financial Aid process.

Armed for battle

At a university where many students rely on some form of public assistance, the challenges to staying in school can be tremendous. Many would be defenseless against the complex and constantly changing system of rules and regulations for public assistance were it not for the work of the Advocacy for Resources for Modern Survival or "ARMS" Center. Holding a binder as though it were a shield, ARMS Center Coordinator Anita Abrams described the Center's role as helping students to cut through the red tape by arming them with the information they need. The staff of the Center provided advocacy, information, referrals, self-help, and education. ARMS members included current and former recipients of various forms of public assistance, as well as anyone interested in downsizing the growing business of poverty.

ARMS is the Massachusetts chapter of the National Welfare Rights Union and is a branch of the Coalition for Basic Human Needs. Activities over the past year included demonstrations at the State House, participation at a national welfare reform conference in St. Louis, MO, coordination of donation drives for children of UMB students, and participation in a Thompson Island retreat. In March 1995 ARMS cosponsored the Welfare Teach-In on campus in order to educate the UMB community and the community at large about the fact and fiction surrounding welfare and welfare reform.

Black Student Center active on and off campus

The Black Student Center (BSC) continued a tradition of being an extremely visible group both on and off campus. In what the Center's Coordinator, Yetanda Canton, called a family atmosphere, the Center worked to increase awareness of black culture at UMB, advocate for black students on campus and make links with the black community off campus.

Under Canton's leadership the BSC had an active year. BSC members volunteered at Rosies's Place, a local women's shelter, and visited seniors at local high schools to encourage them to apply to college. The Center was also represented at the National State of the Race Conference in Baltimore, MD which focused on issues of concern to African Americans such as education, the welfare system, health issues and discrimination.

On campus the Center was actively involved in Political Prisoners in America Day, cosponsored tailgate parties for UMB football and basketball teams to increase student awareness of UMB sports, sponsored campus events during Black History Month including a showcase of African and Black American Art and a Jazz Showcase focusing on the extended black family, and organized several annual events including the Kwaanza holiday celebration, the Black Achievement Dinner and the Black Fashion Show.

Asian culture celebrated

Established in 1985 to respond to a growing Asian Community at UMass Boston, the Asian Center exists to serve the on-campus Asian community as well as to educate others about Asian culture. The work of the center staff included acting as a liaison between students and the administration. Additionally the Center housed the Chinese Club, Japanese Club, Vietnamese Club, Korean Club and Asian-American Club.

Over the course of the year, the Asian Center sponsored events including the Asian American Writer Forum and the Asian Cultural Festival, as well as a variety of parties. The Center staff also took on the goal of providing their constituency with a more international focus than in past years, and worked to create a job network for students with East Asian majors.

Casa Latina is home away from home

As its name suggests, a major part of Casa Latina's mission was to provide a comfortable environment – a home away from home – for Latino students at UMass Boston. This was especially true for those who had no family in the country or needed to overcome language barriers. Throughout the year, the staff of the Center worked to establish a link between Latino students and the administration, and to educate the UMB community about Latino Culture. The Center sponsored events during Latino Week and celebrated the achievements of graduating Latinos with Lo Nuestro, a dinner and dance party.

Vets' Center has room for all

With its spacious facility complete with a large sitting area, a big-screen television and computers, the Veterans' Center functioned primarily as a social center for student vets to meet and talk. The Center also served as a place for veterans to receive information and advice related to veterans' benefits, classes, financial aid, professors, and tutors. Center staff worked throughout the year make the facility conducive and receptive to a diverse group of veterans, including women and vets of all ages, as well as to educate the UMB community about veterans and dispel stereotype images of vets.

The Vets' Center participated in a donation drive for children at Boston City Hospital, organized a variety of events, including a holiday party, a film festival and an end-of-the-year Awards Ceremony for veterans.

Students relax and work in the comfortable environment of the Vets' Center.

A place for Every Woman

Formerly named the Women's Center, this year the Every Woman's Center continued the tradition of offering a comfortable environment complete with amenities in which to relax or discuss issues.

Over the past year the Center also continued to be an active force on campus. Under the direction of Center Coordinator Elaine Batakis-Hyde (also a Framingham 8 member), the Center sponsored and cosponsored a variety of events, including participation in the Jane Doe Walk for Women's Safety, EMERGE: Sensitivity Education By a Man Toward Battered Women, a panel discussion with the Framingham 8, an exhibit of the Clothesline project, and a number of events for International Women's Day. Through these events, and through support and friendship, the Center staff strived to improve the quality of women's lives on campus and in the community.

LGB Center shows pride

The LGB Center exists as a support network for the lesbian, gay and bisexual community at UMass Boston, and to provide a comfortable, non-threatening social environment for those students and their heterosexual allies. The Center maintains a reference library with books and essays relating to gay issues, and acts as a referral service for other national and local organizations serving the diverse needs of the community. In addition, the center works to develop awareness of gay issues within the larger university community and to respond to all instances of homophobia.

Throughout the year, the LGBC sponsored a number of events, including a film festival and an AIDS awareness discussion, and participated in the AIDS Action Committee's dance-a-thon. Under the direction of Center Coordinator Brenda Spiegel, Center staff worked to make the LGB Center more inviting to gay men, and to increase the overall diversity of membership by breaking down cultural barriers.

Serenity granted at ASAC

The life of a student can be difficult, but for a student who is also a recovering addict, life can have some extra pressures. The Alcohol/Substance Awareness Center (ASAC) functions as a support center for UMass Boston recovering addicts. Jowanna Mack, in her second year as Coordinator of the Center, strived to make it a place where students could go regardless of whether they felt happy or sad, wanted to talk, or needed a meeting.

Over the past year the Center staff offered counseling assessment and referrals, as well as organized AA and NA meetings on campus. Additionally, the ASAC served as a resource center with a wide range of literature on the subject of alcohol and drugs, including current listings of self help groups in the area. The Center also worked with off-campus community based organizations.

Through the work of staff and volunteers, the ASAC aimed to educate the UMB community, encourage responsible drinking behavior and increase awareness of healthy alternatives to substance abuse. ASAC-sponsored events included presentations by Students Against Drunk Driving and Mothers Against Drunk Driving, a workshop on Domestic violence, a donation drive for the Transition House in Cambridge, MA and a "mocktail" party for members.

disAbilities Center offers support

The Center for Students with disAbilities was the only Student Center which was not located in the Wheatley Building, but on the first floor of McCormack. The Center existed to serve UMB students with a wide range of disabilities. A student-run Center (which distinguishes it from the state-run Lillian Semper Ross Center for Disability Services down the hall), the Center consistently maintained its status as a safe and comfortable place where students with both physical and learning based disabilities could go for peer support, advocacy referrals, and special accommodations such as purified water, a refrigerator, and an air filter. The Center also housed a number of disability-related support groups, including the American Sign Language club, the UMB Student Council on Learning Disabilities, the Traumatic Brain Injury group and the Visually Impaired Persons group.

Under the leadership of Center Coordinator, Stewart Lewis, disAbilities Center staff worked over the past year to make the Center well known on campus and to encourage as many students as possible – disabled or not – to use the Center. In the process, the staff sought to educate the UMB community about disabilities and to reduce the stigma and prejudice surrounding them.

According to Lewis, the Center's most important role was to offer support to students who became overwhelmed by the pressures of school and life and needed some motivation to continue.

All Work And No Play...

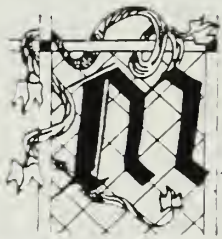

...was not our idea of a good time. Despite busy schedules, we always made time for the parties thrown by various centers, departments, and student organizations. While it's true that these events gave us the opportunity to take a study break and meet new people, the average student admitted that these gatherings had a big drawing factor in common: Free Food!

The fall semester's main theatre production was Mysteries: A Medieval Pageant, which was written and directed by John J. Conlon of the UMass Boston Theatre Department. Set in a small English village during the Third Crusade on December 21, AD 1192, the play framed five newly adapted Mystery Plays, a Morality Play adapted from Chaucer's Miller's Tale, and a new Miracle Play The Christmas Angel. Angels and devils, pilgrims and pirates, clerics and nuns, villagers and players, Druids and other folk mixed in this comic look at wartime life on the home front and the course of the true loves that never ran smooth.

The play was performed in the McCormack Theatre during the first two weekends of December.

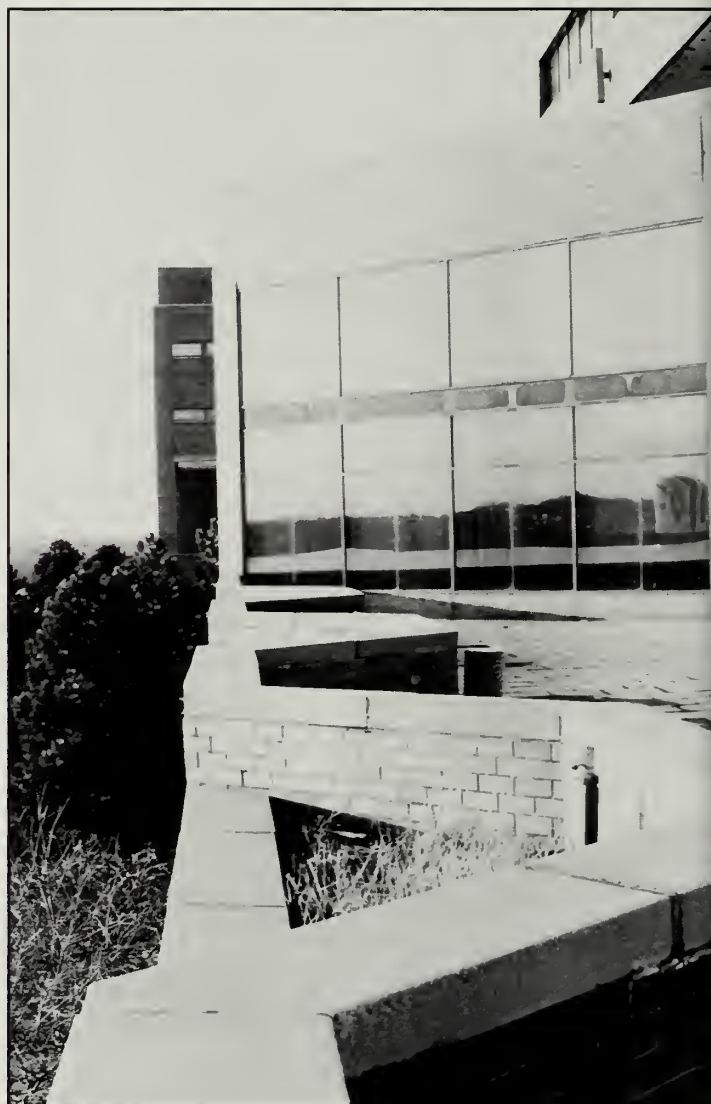

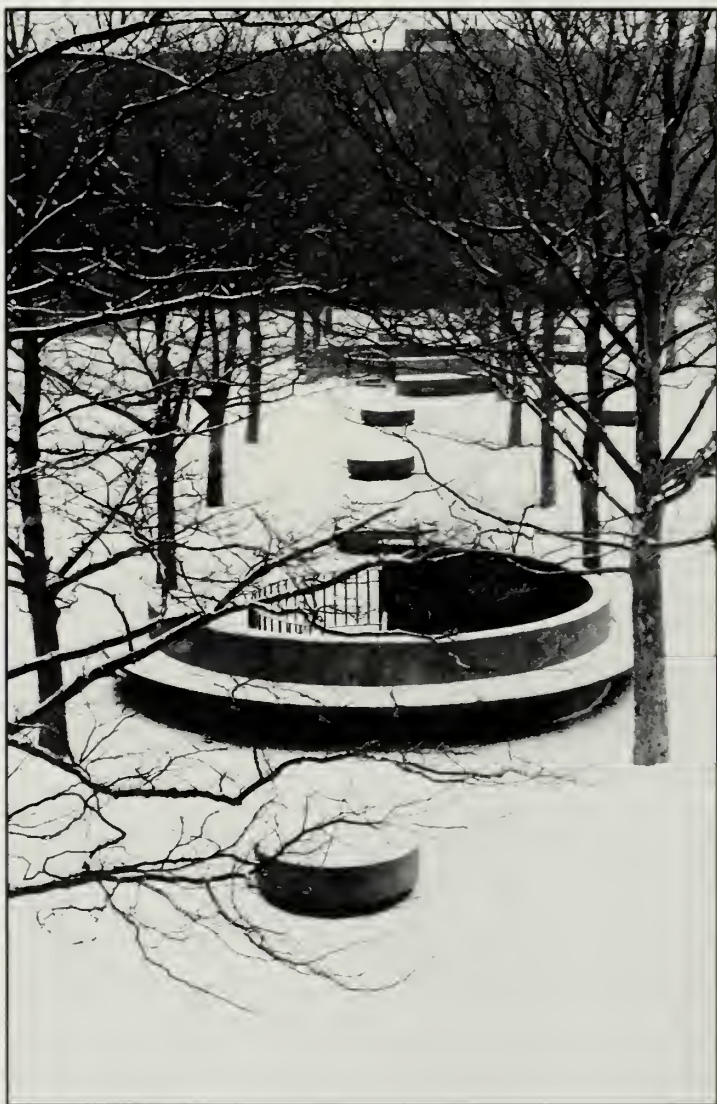

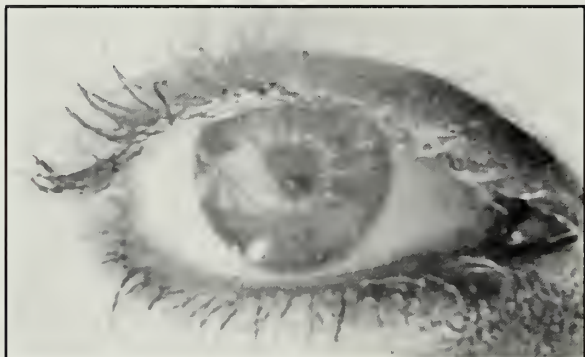

M A K I N G

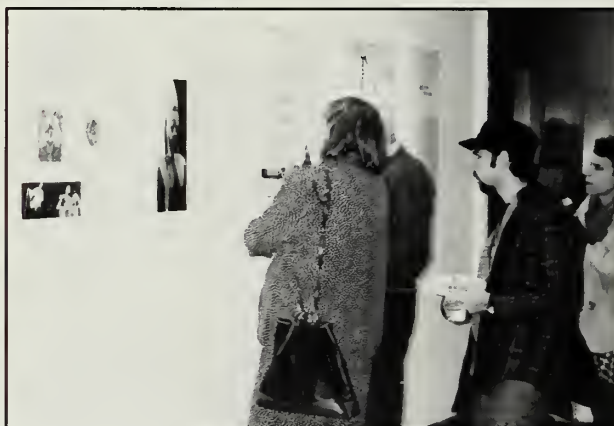

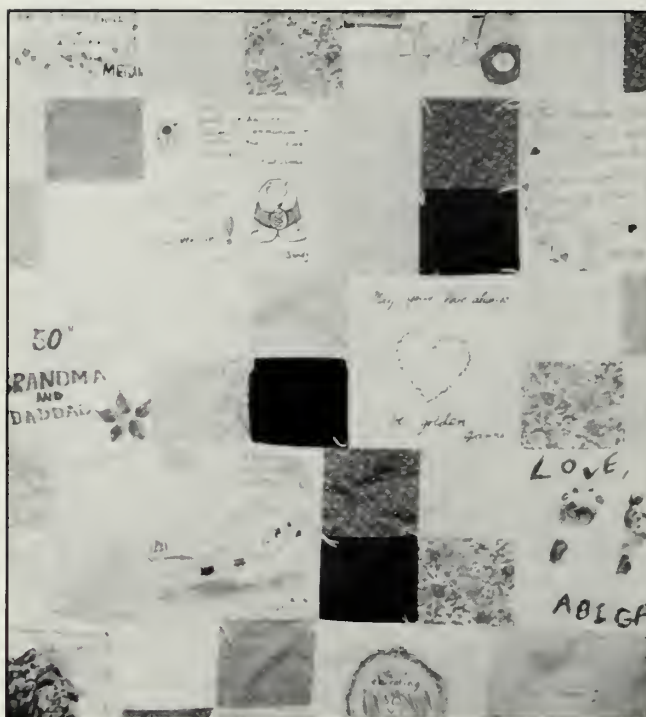

The music department ended the fall semester on a spectacular note with a series of musical extravaganzas. Charles Kamm led the University Chorus (pictured above) in a program entitled "Songs of The World" and the UMass Chamber singers in Mozart's Missa Brevis in F Major. The UMass Chamber Orchestra (right) performed several works under the direction of Jon Mitchell including A Moorside Suite by Gustav Holst. The UMB Jazz Band (top right) performed as three small ensembles (for three times the music) and combined their talents with those of the University Jazz Singers on such numbers as God Bless The Child and Tuxedo Junction.

The Harbor Gallery had a mission: to be as accessible as possible to the entire UMB community, and to present exhibits that would represent the myriad assortment of students and faculty that composed this university.

During the 1994-95 school year, the Gallery was enjoyed by many. Works showcased ranged in medium from photography to sculpture to painting, and exhibits were held in observance of Asian American Month, Women's History Month, and Black History Month.

While the Gallery sponsored exhibits by national and international artists, eighty percent of the work showcased was by local artists. The Gallery further reached out to the Boston community by taking an active part in important social issues with exhibits such as The Clothesline Project. The Gallery's annual exhibit of student work was also held (see page 142).

This year, the Gallery was discovered by several departments on campus and co-sponsored events with A.R.M.S., the English Department, the Creative Writing Department, The Watermark, C.P.C.S., and the Modern Languages Department. Several other groups were aesthetically pleased with the Gallery and held functions there.

The Gallery hopes to continue to serve the UMB campus and community by providing us with convenient, accessible, inexpensive (free), culture.

THE WATERMARK

A Journal of the Arts • University of Massachusetts • Boston

The 1994-95 school year saw the second publishing of The Watermark, UMass Boston's literary journal of the arts. The journal, which is produced by UMB students, is a collection of poetry, fiction, non-fiction, and art work by students attending the university.

The journal begins with staff members plastering the campus with signs and speaking in classes and to peers, asking anyone and everyone who is interested to submit their work to be considered for publication. This year the journal received over 700 submissions, and staff members were faced with the task of determining which pieces would be published in the 121 page publication. Each piece was considered by several people, and as the pile of selected work grew smaller, staff members discussed, argued, and at times compromised opinions in order to produce the final product.

In addition to producing the journal, The Watermark sponsored and cosponsored several events (such as poetry readings) throughout the year in an attempt to find and encourage people on campus to use their creativity. In the future, the journal hopes to be open to more people by publishing twice a year.

The Watermark makes a conscious effort to be representative of the many voices on this campus, and is an example of the diverse number of ideas and talents to be found here.

CLUBS CLUBS CLUBS CLUBS CLUBS

Despite busy schedules and busy lives, UMB students found the time and energy to establish more than 50 Recognized Student Organizations on campus. Each RSO, or club, offered students a chance to meet other students with similar academic and non-academic pursuits. Over the course of the year students participated in a variety of RSO-sponsored events on and off campus. Activities ranged from the Prayer and Bible Club's Gospel concerts to the Geography Club's canoe trip to the Accounting and Finance Academy's "career fest". No matter what its focus, each club provided a niche for students and helped to personalize the UMB experience.

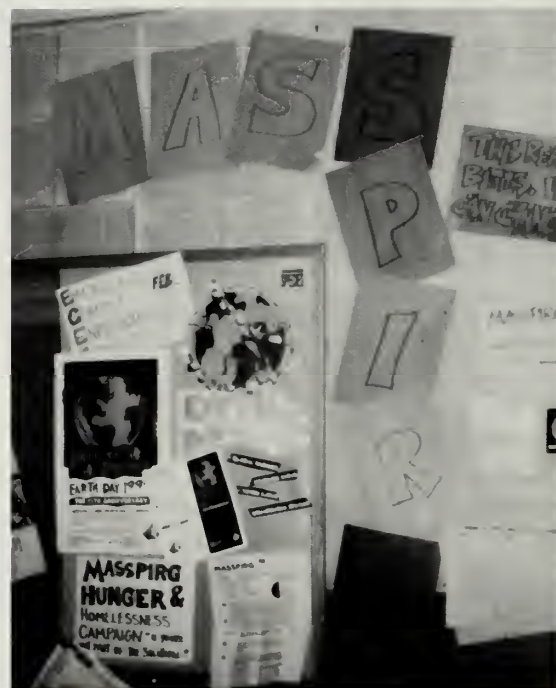

Biology majors and enthusiasts met regularly as the Biology Club (pictured below). The club sponsored social events and a Memorial Day Weekend trip to Nantucket, as well as offered students the chance get advice on courses and careers.

ACCOUNTING & FINANCE ACADEMY •

An RSO at UMB, and one of more than 20 campus chapters of the state-wide organization, MassPIRG remained dedicated to raising issues of public interest. The year's campaigns included the "No on 3" campaign (see photo above), which encouraged voters to retain waivable fees on tuition bills. The group worked to end hunger and homelessness, encourage environmental preservation with the "Free the Planet" campaign, and boost voter registration. MassPIRG also offered internships on and off campus.

The Accounting and Finance Academy served to facilitate a greater understanding of professions in the areas of Accounting and Finance. Throughout the year, the club sponsored visits to the Boston offices of some international accounting firms, organized mock interviews, and hosted a "career night". (See photo bottom left.) Students also participated in a "Stock Market Game".

Although this was its first year as an official RSO, The Campus Players have been an active theatre group at UMB for several years. Working independently of the Theatre Department, the group's agenda for the year included performances of Beyond Therapy (pictured above) as well as "open mike" sessions every other Friday at the Wit's End.

The Pre-Med Society (pictured at left) provided a variety of services and activities for pre-med students at UMB. Activities throughout the course of the year included group trips to the Boston University and Worcester Medical Schools, but did not stop there. The club also organized workshops on financial aid for medical school, on the medical school interviewing process, and on MCAT preparation. In addition, students participated in the Pre-Med Society's "Doctor For A Day" program, through which they were able to spend a day with a doctor at a local hospital. The club also maintained a library of med school related video tapes and served as a means for students to meet each other on a social basis.

The Vietnamese Student Association acted as a support group and meeting place for Vietnamese students on campus. The Club sponsored social events and parties, and participated in the Asian Cultural Festival. The group also helped to promote awareness of Vietnamese culture and to further the understanding of other cultures.

The Hillel Club (see photo below) was the foundation of UMB's Jewish community. Throughout the year the club upheld its mission to strengthen campus-based Jewish activism and to promote Jewish life on campus by providing resources and opportunities for Jewish students to connect with their culture and engage in Jewish activities. The group's activities included organizing traditional holiday events, such as the Passover Seder shown at right.

CLUB • MATH &

Under the leadership of George Koulis, the International Business Club (photo not available) worked to fulfill its mission to bring students closer to the "real world" of global business and economy. The club's ambitious agenda of activities for the year included providing opportunities for groups of students to act as consultants for local businesses, creating the Interpreters Database, organizing a lecture series which featured speakers from reputed international companies and government agencies, and conducting presentations about different countries for area high school students. The IBC also worked with the International Business Center of New England (IBCNE) to begin building a network of student organizations which have an international focus. Also with the support of the IBCNE, the club produced the International Resume Book which lists resumes of UMB students interested in pursuing a career in international business and is distributed to area businesses.

ELEVATOR OUT OF SERVICE

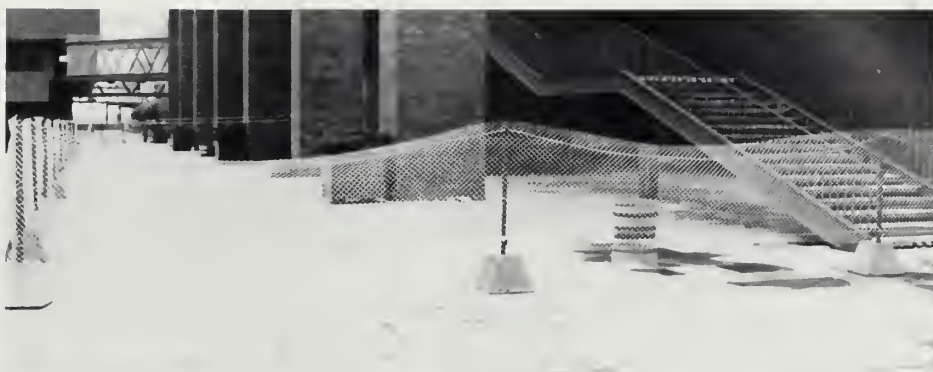

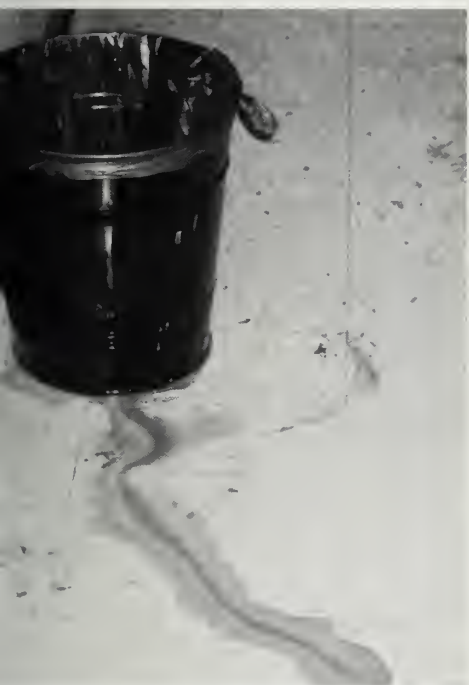

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

Over the last few years, those of us who had been paying attention noticed the slow decline in the physical condition of our University. We complained about the messes in the bathrooms and the fact that there was suddenly only one entrance to the library. Seniors made half-serious jokes about whether or not the plaza would hold the weight of all the people attending Commencement. We bad-mouthed the Administration for not doing anything about it.

What many of us were not aware of, however, was the fact that our school was trying to survive under extreme circumstances. The State had cut our budget multiple times since 1988, affecting everything from salaries to library books. The "Contract with America" shoved public education way down (if not completely off the priority list -- there was even talk of disbanding the nation's Department of Education. It was not the year to need money for extensive repairs, though minor improvements were made. The hallways and bathrooms in McCormack Hall were painted. The Financial Aid Office was renovated to give twice as many students access to counselors. A Fitness Center was opened in McCormack

In a time where getting the most for your money had become a survival skill, this school was even more important to us. As we look back upon our years here, we should remember not that the elevators never worked or the pot-holes in the parking lot, but that we had here a finer faculty and student body than many schools that would have cost three times as much. If Boston can stand by the Red Sox year after year, then we should be able to stand by our school, even if our contribution is simply being informed voters when election time comes.

Boston EXPERIENCE

YOUR UMass

HAS BEEN BROUGHT

O You B Y!

59

On behalf of my colleagues on the faculty and staff of the College of Management, we offer our collective congratulations on your accomplishments. We have enjoyed watching and participating in your progress during your years here, and we wish you every success as you embark on the next phase of your life. Hopefully, the training you have received will contribute significantly toward enhancing the quality of your professional achievements. In addition, I want to draw your attention to our efforts to develop an active alumni organization, and I would invite you to participate. Through maintaining your contact with the College, you will be able to enhance your career network.

DEAN ERIC HAYDEN, College of Management

Congratulations to the 1995 graduates of the College of Nursing! Your Human Performance and Fitness and Nursing professors are proud to present you to the workforce as outstanding examples of the highest quality practitioners in your respective majors... Many of you are already recognized as emerging leaders in your fields of study and will use the knowledge and abilities gained from your baccalaureate or Master's education to position yourselves for higher levels of responsibility and performance. Those entering the professions will find that an educational credential serves as an indicator of potential contribution, and your advancement will depend upon your individual performance, motivation, and tenacity.

We wish you success in all your endeavors and look forward to our continuing association as colleagues and alumnae.

DEAN BRENDA CHERRY, College of Nursing

Those of you graduating this year have been at UMass Boston through a period of years encompassing major changes. A positive response to change is a good part of what constitutes leadership, and many of you, in formal and informal roles, have made important contributions to leading the campus during your time here. You have my gratitude and my enthusiasm for what it promises. The University will increasingly take steps - the student leadership seminar begun this last year is one - to nurture the leadership capacities of its students and graduates. No place is more appropriate for doing this than a campus like our own, for no campus is more representative of who we are as a nation. And with who you are, with your breadth of experience, honed by contact with the insights from many intellectual and cultural traditions, and armed with generosity of spirit, you go forth from UMass Boston with the capacity to contribute, to lead in your community's creative response to whatever history it brings next. May you increasingly come to know that you are the ones who can do it; you are the ones who will. -- SHERRY H. PENNY, CHANCELLOR

On behalf of the faculty and staff of the College of Arts and Sciences, we offer the graduating class of 1995 our congratulations and best wishes for the future. We are very proud of all of you; you are our greatest resource. You and your classmates form a diverse and rich student body who have enriched all of our lives. Although each student's experience at UMass Boston is unique, you share many common hopes and expectations. While grappling with your courses, your work schedules, and your family responsibilities, you have sacrificed much and worked hard to earn your degrees. Be proud of your accomplishments. Through your hard work and diligence you have succeeded in obtaining your degree. This determination, in addition to the knowledge you have acquired at UMass Boston -- both in and out of the classroom -- will enable you to continue to prosper. You can accomplish much by using the determination and drive you have already demonstrated in earning your degrees. We applaud your accomplishments. May all your hopes and expectations be realized.

CHRISTINE ARMETT-KIBEL, Dean of Sciences;
PATRICIA S. DAVIDSON, Dean of Undergraduate Education; WOODRUFF SMITH,
Dean of Arts.

Congratulations to the CPCS class of 1995! On behalf of all the faculty and staff, I salute you on your accomplishments. We are very proud of you and wish you well in your future endeavors.

I have been on the faculty at the College for 18 years and each year at Commencement I am more impressed with what our graduates have achieved. Unlike most college students, you are adults with family responsibilities, work demands, and in most cases, various sorts of public and community service commitments. Your ability to manage all these tasks while matriculating in a college program is worthy of special recognition.

We are proud that so many of you will be furthering your education at the graduate level. We are equally proud of those of you who continue your careers in public and community service with the added support a CPCS education provides.

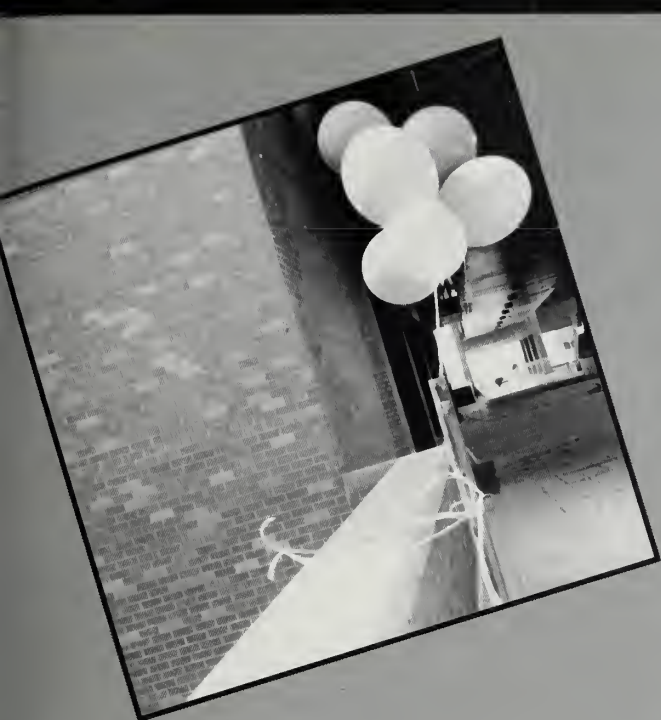

We look forward to your continuing involvement in CPCS as alumni and we promise to keep in touch with you in the future. You are the College's greatest resource and we will continue to value your participation and support.

JAMES GREEN, Acting Dean, College of Public and Community Service

"The length of your education is less important than its breadth; the length of your life is less important than its depth."

Though UBM hadn't had a wet Commencement in over 12 years, our spirits were by no means rained out. We held umbrellas, wore plastic ponchos over our gowns, or simply enjoyed the rain during the outdoor portion of the ceremony. What was rain compared to the fact that we were finally done with this segment of our academic careers?

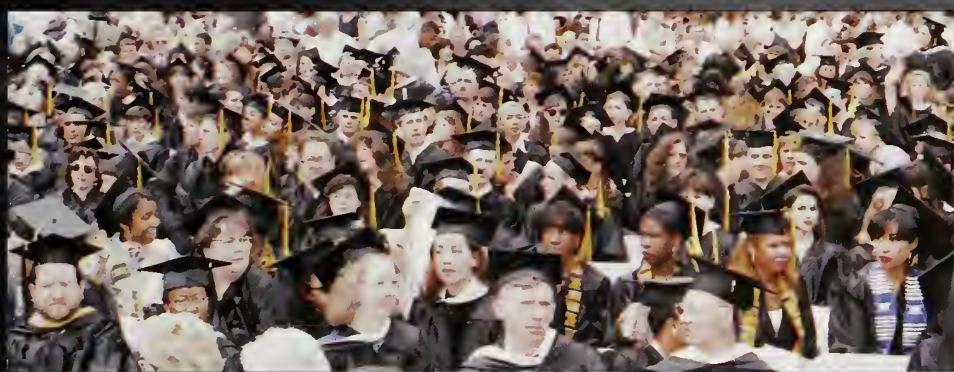

Rain or Shine...

GHETTO

For its second production of the 1994-'95 school year, the UMB Theatre Department presented Joshua Sobol's Ghetto. Based on historical events, the play chronicled the lives of characters who represent the actual residents of Vilna, Lithuania during World War II. Cut off from the outside world by Nazi forces, the town became known as the Vilna Ghetto. The play follows residents as they rise above the adverse conditions and form a theatre group in the Ghetto. The play opened on April 28, United States Holocaust Day, and closed on the fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of the Germans which ended World War II.

Asian Cultural Festival

On May 1, 1995, the UMass Boston Asian Center presented its tenth annual Asian Cultural Festival to a packed Snowden Auditorium. Through a variety of performances by students and professionals, the Cultural Festival achieved its mission of providing the UMB community with a taste (both through the performances and through the food served afterwards) of Asian culture.

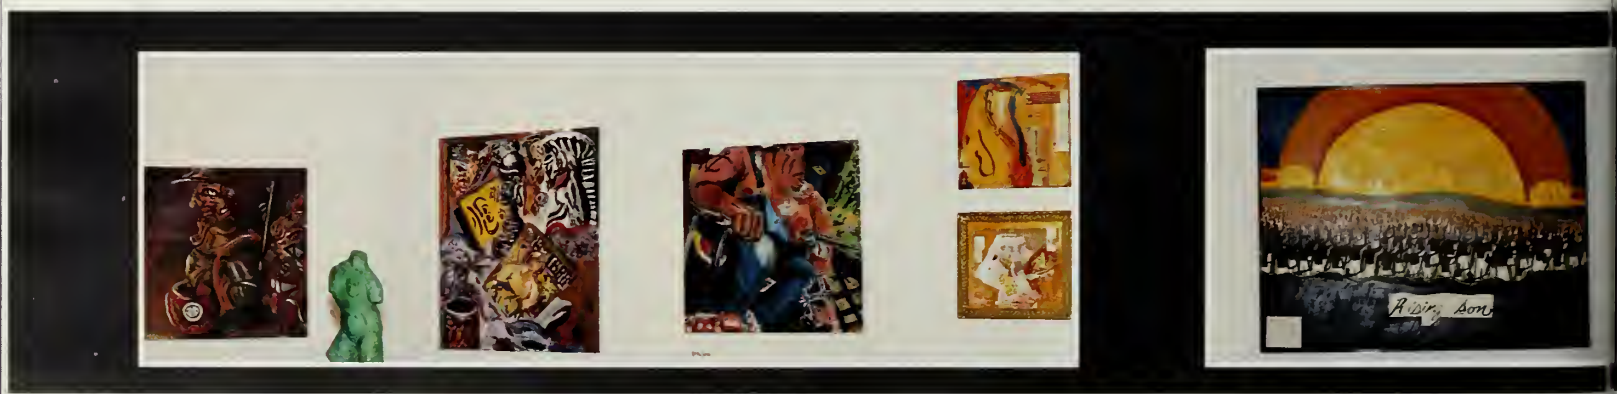

"Diversity Lives Through Eternity"

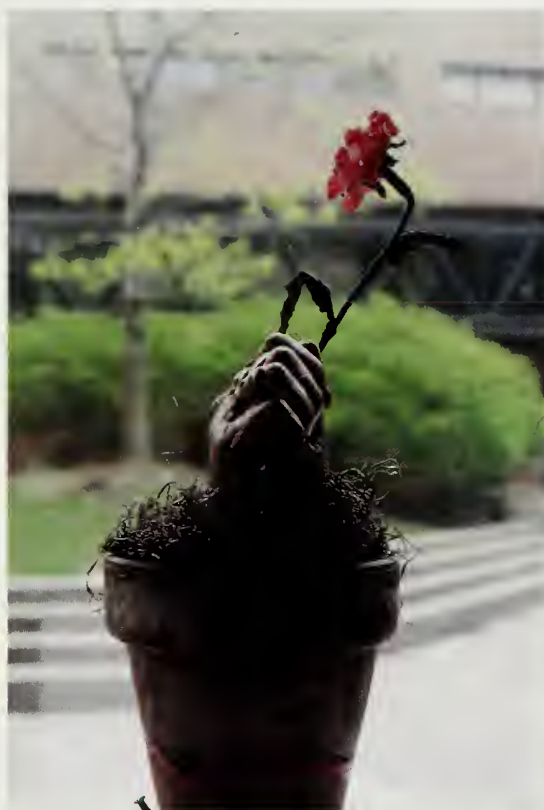

The Harbor Gallery

STUDENT EXHIBIT

The staff of the Harbor Gallery welcomed any and all students to submit their art to be considered for the annual exhibit of student works. Various types of work were submitted; oil paintings, self-portraits, sculpture, pottery, and photographs were but a few of the mediums used by our school's talented artists.

Everyone (including those of us who weren't artistically inclined) were welcomed to the opening of the show, which ran from the end of May to the beginning of June. As usual, the display of works selected left us in awe of the talents possessed by our fellow students.

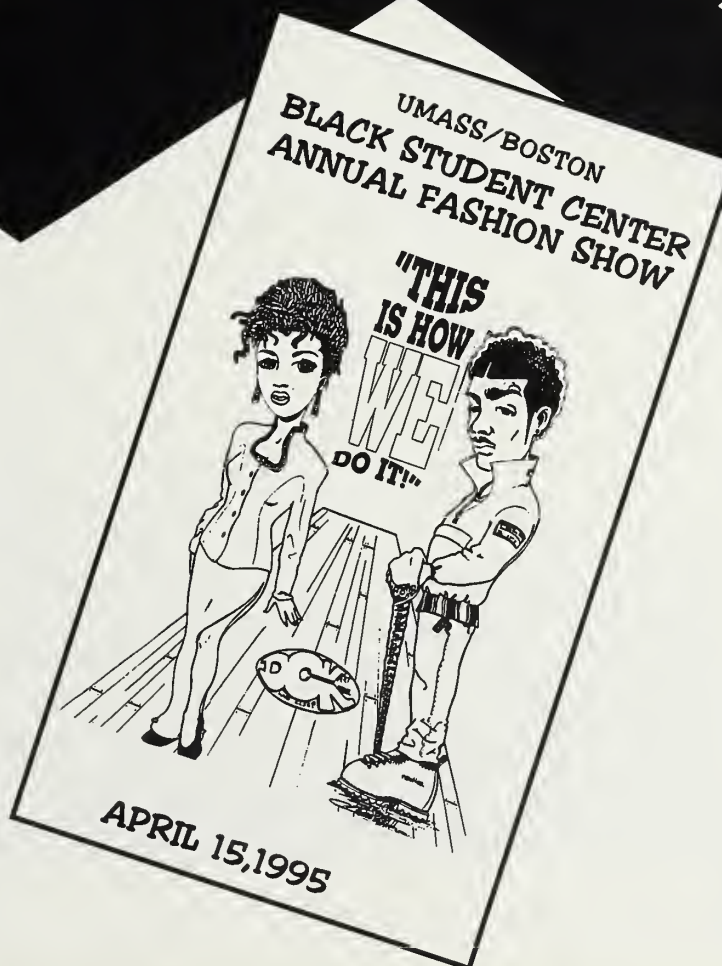

Billed as one of the most exciting UMB events of the year, the Black Student Center's Annual Fashion Show did not disappoint in 1995. Held at the Back Bay Hilton, the show featured the designs of Andrea Alexander and Black Student Center Coordinator, Yetanda Canton.

The event also showcased the modeling talents of a number of UMB students. In a dazzling twelve scenes of innovative choreography and the latest fashions, models strutted down the runway dressed to kill. Styles ranged from evening-wear to sportswear to Deyo African fabrics. The fashion show was followed by a party with dancing and refreshments.

"This is how WE do it!"

KUDOS TO US!

Over the course of any academic year, many students at UMass Boston went above and beyond the call of duty by excelling in their courses, achieving excellence in athletics, or by making a name for themselves through their involvements in campus clubs, publications, and other organizations.

These achievements did not go unnoticed. To honor these students, departments and colleges held awards ceremonies and convocations for the students that made the extra effort in their commitments both to themselves and to the University. Whether the event was a luncheon in the University Club, a ceremony in the Harbor Gallery, or an off-campus extravaganza (i.e. the C.P.C.S. dinner/ dance), students were appreciative of the fact that they were appreciated.

Leadership Luncheon May 8, 1995

*Is there a way to say "Auf Wieder-Sehn" to every student leader?
Is there a way, with so long a lista
Honorees to say "Hasta la vista"?
Is there a way to say "Au Revoir"
With fireworks, a la Red Auerbach's cigar?
On this smoke-free campus, not a chance,
But let me provide what song and dance
I can, and to U-M-Be-ans raise -- Apollo, stand by me! --paeans of praise!*

But first, of your forgiveness, provide me an ounce

*Or two when your names I mispronounce,
For I'll be employing some far-out phonetics;
And enjoying, ad librium, "license poetic"!*

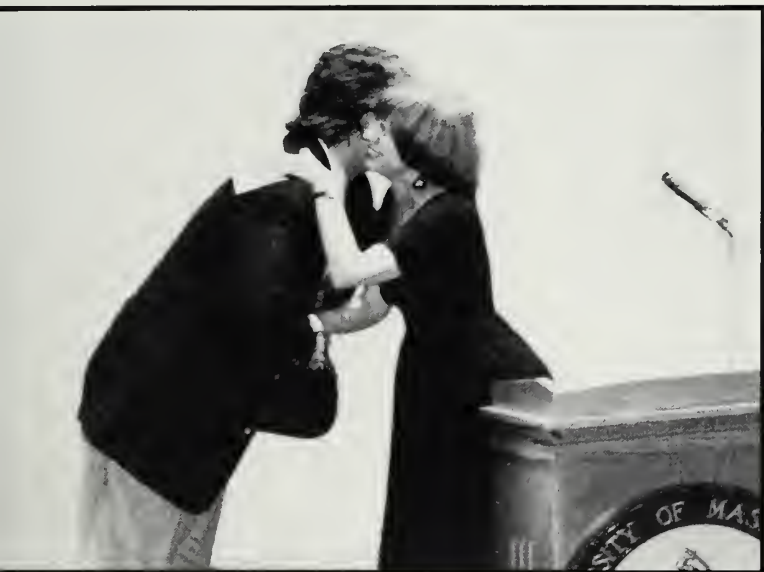

*So now, and with P.R.I.D.E., without further ado,
A substantial "Hats Off" to Deborah McCue;
And to one who has counted each senate penny,
And come to each meeting, Catherine Kenny;
Admissions is blessed by the buoyancy
And freshman freshness of Nui Lee;
One reason Women's Studies "sells"
Is the mentoring genius of Janice Wells!
Flowering fair in Marketing soil,
And their best boon is June Boyle!
As for Betty Marie Jeremie,
She's so great that I hope she'll marry me!
On stage and in music a lollapalooza
With a 3.9 brain is Jane M. Souza!
Hail! Hail! To Elaine Hyde,
The Women's Center's Joy and pride;
And to Richard Edwards, Hal-le-lu-jah!
He splendidly fuses psych and the lah!
And Hosanna! Hosanna! To Jowanna Mack,
Helping kid after kid put the lid on crack!
In advocacy, our non-pareil
Is Fitzgerald's namesake, F. Scott O'Neil!*

At dis-A-bil-i-ties, the glue is
 This really great guy, Stewart Lewis:
 And at Student Life, the jewel is
 I.B.C.'s George Koulis;
 Academic Support acknowledges freely
 The hardworking service of Marion Mealy;

And the testing center was much in luck
 To choose Charles Verrochi, aka "Chuck"!
 Women's Basketball? Everyone feared 'em,
 One big reason this season was Tara O'Riordan!
 Hats off to the hat tricks of Rich Manning:
 At slap shots and trap shots, truly outstanding!
 When Forest Speck makes a hullabaloo,
 It's for real -- he likes Kevin Donahue!
 Darlene Solomon took the mys-te-ry --
 What wisdom! -- out of the W.P.E.!
 Over a "Schweitzer fellow," some furor
 Needs to be raised -- for Richard Scepura!
 And if you haven't heard of Greg Rubin
 And C.P.R., I'll just ask, "Where have you been?"
 Also in Nursing -- through the full cycle,
 Right up to President -- Michelle Carmichael!
 Full of care and full of fun,
 Nursing's Queen, Maureen Sullivan!
 All our students internat-i-o-nal
 Cheer for Neeraj. K. Aggerwall!
 And hooray for James Kearney! Good student retention
 Is very much due to his shrewd intervention!
 Kim Courtney, we are pleased to rate ya
 High for work here, and in Appalachia!
 And Student Affairs is overjoyed
 With the front line service of Lisa Boyd!
 Hail two senators: a girl and a boy --
 Dee Dee Anderson, Michael Molloy!
 Open up the champagne and pour a
 Toast to Watermark's Joyce Rain Latorra!
 And while we're drinking, hoist a stein
 Of beer to the Yearbook's Mara Klein!
 And in Veteran matters, lift a chorus
 Of ringing praise to Robert Morris!
 Then lift up Anthems congratulatori
 To Tasha Baizerman, Mona Foldvari!
 Let me pluck my Homeric harp again
 To Martha Munoz and Ngoc Nguyen!
 And loudly let the trumpets bray
 To Richard Sheehan, Indrani Bray;

*Yea, ta-ran-tara, let bugles blare
For Deborah Bibeau, Sarah Bayer;
Now trill those high notes outtasight
To Trudy Condido, Christopher Wright;
And pour a drink, adding tabasco,
For Sheila Gagnon and Vicki Vanasco;
And hit the big bass drum a ton
For James Williams and Mark Donovan;
Then let the cymbals crash in an eardrum breaker*

*For Ernie P. Little and Donna J. Szeker;
And one final crescendo, "eight-to-the-bar,"
To Christine Clifford and Roy Dobbelaar!*

*Finally, let the baton fall
As we bow to Susan Pimental;
And as an encore at the close:
Jamie Arnstein, James Gomes, and Scott Rose!*

*All travelers aboard the Ark
Launched here today by Kelly Clark,
So that, should flood tide spring torrented,
Lift the deep to heights unwarranted,
And, as fair warning to man all craft,
Creep up the elevator shaft,
Why, two by two, we can take raft
Aboard these tables: Forty days
And forty nights, the Bible says,
We'll float upon a shoreless sea,
'Til, cleansed at long last of the W.P.E.
And other requirements of that ilk
A dove from the land of honey and milk
Will appear bearing a sheepskin scroll,
And the seas will part, and the Honor Roll
Will extend and extend to include the whole World, Every single human soul!
And at last the seeds of education,
Broadcast, shall bear fruit in every nation.*

*So, you leaders, Lead thither! Your generation
Must work towards this wondrous consummation,
Which is preemptive jubilation
I sing! Thus endeth my peroration!
Thanks in advance for your cooperation:
My ten grandchildren await salvation!*

SPORTS

SPORTS

Sports were more than fun and games

As we attended UMass Boston, we were told time and time again that we were not typical students. We were... non-traditional. There were no dorms on our campus. We were often more concerned with paying rent than we were with socializing. We worked full time, took care of our kids, and were older than students at most other schools.

We took this not as a hindrance but as a challenge. Being active on campus took effort, and we put it forth. It was upon this principle that the Department of Athletics operated. As a Division III school, UMass Boston competed against such schools as Tufts, Suffolk, UMass Dartmouth, Salem State, and MIT, and our strong showing proved that "traditional" was not necessarily synonymous with "better."

There was much more to the Department of Athletics than intercollegiate sports. The department provided activities and facilities that were open to all students via our athletic fee. The Intramural - Recreation Department provided us with the opportunity to play everything from Horseshoes and Frisbee to Volleyball and Floor Hockey. For those of us without the time and/or money to join a health club, we ad at our disposal an Olympic sized swiming pool, Nautilus classes, and aerobics lasses, as well as the brand new Fitness enter (complete with nautilus equipment, ree weights, and racquetball courts) that was pened on the first floor of the McCormack uilding. For those of us who couldn't afford to oin a Yacht Club, we were offered sailing essons and the use of sailboats at no charge.

Sure, we were "non-traditional," but we ked our fun, games, and healthy competition ust like everyone else. What better way to elieve the stress that we were often placed nder than with a good workout?

HOCKEY

Hockey has long been a tradition at UMass Boston. The team started as a club in the 1970's and became a team after our school's merge with Boston State College. As Hockey is a regional sport played only in the Midwest and Northeast, there aren't many university programs and talent is condensed.

Our team plays in ECAC-East at a highly competitive level. The UMB Hockey team completed the 1994-95 season with a strong finish - three victories in the final four games.

The Beacon's Soccer team kicked off the 1994 season with three consecutive victories, the best season start in the program's fifteen year history at UMass Boston.

One of the highlights of the 1994 season was the team's big win (2 to 1) over Bridgewater State, the tenth ranked team in New England.

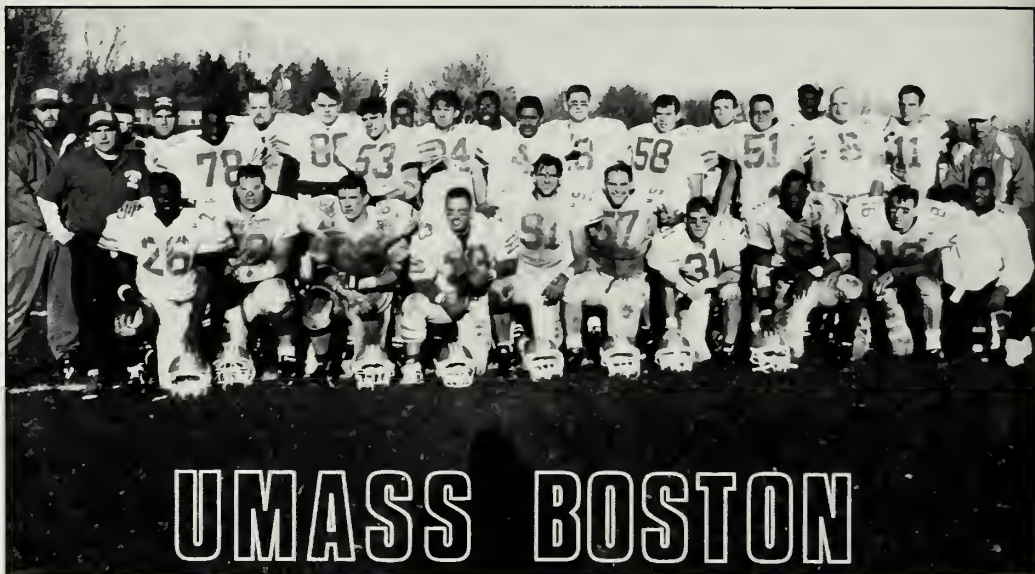

The team had several young players who excelled over the course of the season. Coach Noel Cotterell spoke optimistically about the team's continued improvement and has hopes for a bright future.

Football

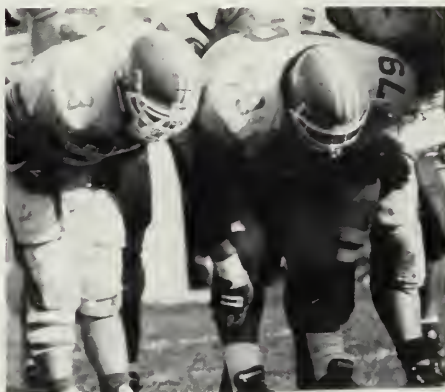

If team spirit won conferences, the UMB football team would have taken it all the way. Despite a limited number of players and sustained injuries, players went the extra mile to keep the team alive by learning more than one position.

The season had several bright spots. The defense held the number one running back in our division to the lowest number of yards per game he had all season. Jon Hoffmon, Shean Biggs, and Joe Gonzalez were named to the N.E. Football Conference's Defensive Honor Roll, and Rich Moraz was named ECAC Rookie of the Week.

Lacrosse

Lacrosse has been with our University for as long as we've had a Department of Athletics.

Winning the last four games of the season allowed the Beacon's Lacrosse Team to celebrate its fourth consecutive winning season, and our team's first victory over Western New England College in over nine years made us third place in the Pilgrim League.

Captain Jason Lucas was the team's best defensive player and was chosen for the New England East / West All-Star Game, and Rick McCann was ranked fourth in the league as goalie.

Despite the loss of these and other senior team members, Coach Myles Berry has high hopes for next year's returning team members and new recruits.

Women's Basketball

The 1994-95 season spelled nothing but success for the Lady Beacons as they were crowned the winners of the MAIAW Championship Basketball Tournament. This was UMB's first women's basketball MAIAW placement since 1982 when our team lost in the first round.

That we had the best finish in our league in our conference (fourth place) and upheld the second best record in the history of Women's Basketball at UMB further highlighted the season. Coach Kathy Stockman felt that the season was a tribute to all on the team who pushed themselves to their maximum.

Men's Basketball

The 1994-95 Men's Basketball team was a young team; there were no seniors on the team and most games had at least three freshman starters. Despite this, the team grew amazingly well over the season, ending with a 13-13 overall record and 5-7 mark in the Little East Conference. The Beacon's 13 wins was the team's strongest showing since the 1984-85 season, and their five Little East victories were the most since the team joined the conference.

With the entire team returning for the 1995-96 season, we can expect great things from Men's Basketball in the future.

The UMB Softball team finished with a 7-1 season. Jenn Medeiros was the Beacons leading pitcher and also played first base. Senior Nicole Fitzgerald led the team with 27 hits and 24 runs scored, and broke the record for number of games played at UMB with her total of 76. Betty Crouch was the leading Beacon batter, closing the season strong with nine hits in her final at-bats.

The 1995 season taught the UMB baseball team that small numbers did not equate to an insignificant showing on the field. Despite the fact that the team had only two pitchers (most teams have 10-12) and a total of fifteen players, the Beacons had big wins over Bridgewater State (#1 ranked team), Suffolk (#3), and Tufts (#5).

Another high point in the season was the breaking of the school record for stealing bases that occurred when the Beacons stole thirteen bases in one game against Colby Sawyer.

Volleyball

The UMB Volleyball season ended the 1995 season with a strong finish. Winning their last three games contributed to the team's 9-12 season, the most victories attained by any UMB volleyball team since the 1982-83 season.

This young team is on the rise. With only three team members graduating, the Beacons' Volleyball team has great expectations for the future.

The 1994 season brought with it the addition of Men's Cross Country to the UMB Athletic Department. The team was reinstated after a two year hiatus after the inquiries and responses to ads made by the Athletic Department met with positive responses.

Due to its newness as a team, the runners had only one week of practice before their first meet. The team was better prepared for the rest of the season. The main highlight of the season occurred at the Little East Championships at Rhode Island College on October 29, where UMB's Jonah Backstrom was the only runner to place in the top seven who was not from Little East Champion UMass Dartmouth. His placement helped to earn the Beacon's their third place ranking.

In the future, Coach Paul Cannata hopes to see a revived interest in Cross Country, to increase the number of runners on the team, and to give recreational runners an opportunity to work with the team.

Tennis

The UMB Men's Tennis team finished the season strong with two consecutive victories, bringing their record to a 6-7.

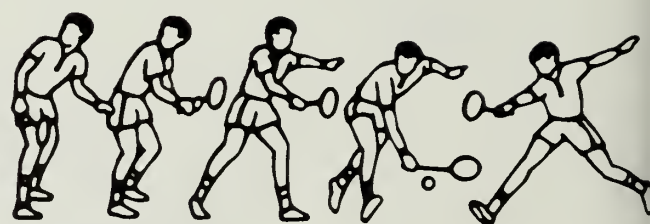

The team's pace was set by Julian Wortelboer and Dana Gleason. Wortelboer led the team in singles with a 16-4 record and in doubles (paired often with Gleason) with a 15-3 record. He went on to place as a semi-finalist in the New England Championships. Gleason was also the victor in the Little East number two singles championship.

JUNE

34 year old Nicole Brown Simpson (ex-wife of O.J. Simpson) and friend Ronald Goldman are found stabbed to death in her Brentwood area condominium on June 13, 1995. The first reports are surprising enough; Simpson is suspected in the brutal murders, but it is his arrest that proves unforgettable. Instead of turning himself in as promised, Simpson has a friend drive him on what ends up being a slow-speed pursuit of fifty miles. The two hour chase is watched by so many TV viewers that virtually all network programming is preempted and spectators gather on freeway overpasses to catch a glimpse of the white Ford Bronco. Finally, the car returns to Simpson's West Los Angeles house, where he surrenders after nightfall. So began what many called (and may still be calling) the most famous murder case in American History. We had the option of eating, sleeping, and living our lives amidst the "trial of the century" as every paper, magazine, and news program brought us minute to minute coverage.

In return, Cuban leader Fidel Castro promises to halt the flight of boat people.

CONGRATULATIONS UMB GRADS!

This yearbook has been brought to you by...

1995 YEARBOOK STAFF: Photo Editor Quan Nguyen, Editor in Chief Mara Klein, Layout Editor Susanna Hilfer, Photographer David Wheeler.

Above... The soundtrack to which the 1995 Beacon was created was provided by the world's most aesthetically endowed radio, which had been sentimentally passed down from generation to generation of UMB Yearbook staffs; Right... When not taking pictures, contributing photographer Yeam Leekrakul explored the great outdoors.

Taylor Publishing of Dallas, Texas printed 1,700 copies of the 1995 Beacon.

Davor Photography of Philadelphia shot, developed, and printed 666 senior head shots (four additional photos from other sources were accepted due to extenuating circumstances), as well as developing and printing almost all film shot by Beacon staff photographers. 5 rolls of color film were developed and 10 color photos were reprinted by Ritz Camera. 2 rolls of film were developed at C.V.S. 6 rolls of black and white film were developed and 2 black and white photos were reprinted at Stone Photo.

The cover of the 1995 Beacon was blue 441 with all type and tool lines in silver foil. The cover was initially and collectively designed by all members of the Beacon staff (with deference to David Wheeler) and polished by the artists at Taylor Publishing.

Most body copy and captions were set in 9-14 point New Century Schoolbook or New Century Schoolbook Italic. The Year In Review and Graduation Program were set in Times. Headlines were set in Avant Garde, Bookman, Courier, Geneva, Helvetica, Monaco, N Helvetica Narrow, New Century Schoolbook, Palatino, Times, and/or Zaph Chancery.

All layouts (except for 4 spreads by Quan Nguyen) were designed by Susanna Hilfer and Mara Klein.

All copy was written by Mara Klein and Susanna Hilfer with thanks to John Conlon for "Mysteries" copy and credit to TIME magazine, Entertainment Weekly, The Friday Report, the Mass Media, the Boston Globe, and the Associated Press for information collected for the Year in Review.

Most photos were taken by Quan Nguyen and David Wheeler. Most athletics photography by Chris Shay with contributions from Rick Sledzick and Jet Commercial Photography. Several Year In Review photos were supplied by the Associated Press/ World Wide Photos. Many thanks to contributing Beacon photographers Barry Mahoney, Yeam Leekrakul (we missed you, Yeam!), and Kristin Catania.

editor's note
CONGRATULATIONS!

You made it! (Not just to the completion of your undergraduate education, but to the end of the 1995 Beacon). The yearbook staff wishes you (and two of us) the best of luck in everything you do.

The purpose of a yearbook is to record history. In the course of the 1994-1995 UMass Boston school year, it was our job to give fair and accurate coverage to as many people, events, and activities as we could. In attempting a task of this size, we got to know each other pretty well. We laughed, we cried, we ate PEZ. Due to the size of our staff, each of us learned about and helped to create different aspects of the book.

The Staff of the 1995 Beacon would like to take this opportunity to extend a "Thanks an awful lot!" to the people that gave us a hand in need as we gathered the proper information for the 1995 Beacon: Laura Prudden (the Office for Institutional Research), Cheryl Libratore, David Cessario, and Vicki Vanasco (Registrar's Office), John Conlon and Ron Nash (of the

Theatre Department), Frank Casey (Financial Aid Office), Jane Cummings (Bursar's Office), and Becky Hsu (Human Resources). Extra special thanks go to the entire staff of UMB's Department of Athletics (especially Sports Information Director Chris Shay) for always returning our phone calls and supplying us with statistics and photographs.

General (but not less important) thanks also need to be extended to the following people: to Donna Neal, our advisor (as well as to the entire staff of Student Life), to Wayne Hatmaker for installing our software and for complimenting my cookies, and Steve Schroder of Taylor Publishing for miraculously solving every PageMaker dilemma that we came up with (except for the one that happened while he was away -- thanks for our surviving that dilemma go to Joe Kennedy).

Gratitude to my fellow staff members, who made working on this year's yearbook a wonderful experience that has ended with a great product, and who all overcame fears of claustrophobia to come to staff meetings. Thanks as well to the entire staff of Jacob Wirth's Restaurant and Jim, Leslie, and Kay Withall for their support, and to Peter McClure, who never once complained when we spilled out of our office and were drawing layouts in the entryway of his office.

Last but not least, we thank every person who allowed themselves to be photographed or interviewed, and, of course, we thank everyone that we forgot to thank.

Have a great future!

The Yearbook photography studs when faced with the prospect of having their pictures taken by non-professionals.

Left... Mara always reached for her make-up bag at the sight of a camera; Right... Susanna spent hours in the pilot's seat as she mastered the Mac.

This is not the end. This is not even the beginning of the end, but it is perhaps the end of the beginning.

--- Sir Winston Churchill
